A student in the Master of Arts in Monastic Studies:

- Develops critical thinking skills and experience in graduate level research
- Attains an academic competency in Monastic Studies
- Acquires understanding of the monastic tradition through research and graduate studies

Masters-level studies offers a program that allows for a deepening of one’s formation in monastic history and spirituality.

Open to religious or other students, the Master of Arts in Monastic Studies is a two or three-year program.

“The purpose of this degree program is to provide a basic understanding of theological disciplines for further graduate study and for general educational purposes.”—The Association of Theological Schools, Bulletin 50, Part 1, 2012, G-52, D.1.1.1.
Students in the Monastic Studies program at Saint Vincent Seminary generally live in the monastic community. This allows them to take part in the ongoing monastic tradition of one of the world’s largest monastic communities.

Requirements for Admission

- Bachelor’s degree
- At least 18 credits in philosophy and Judeo-Christian theology
- Working knowledge of biblical Greek of Latin at the intermediate level (French or German may be substituted with permission)

All courses are normally offered during the day. Seminars may be offered in the evenings.
